

ROYAL CANADIAN SEA CADET CORPS QUINTE

Multi-Unit Seamanship Training Weekend Saturday February 3th – Sunday February 4th

RCSCC Quinte will be hosting a Seamanship Training Weekend and have invited our fellow Sea Cadets from Kingston, Trenton and Bancroft. This weekend covers mandatory training where our cadets come together with cadets from the other units to learn and practice their seamanship skills. They will learn such things as: tying knots, splicing ropes, heaving lines, fancy rope work, rigging blocks and tackles, building sheer legs and marine navigation. It is important that every effort is made to attend as a majority of the seamanship component of the training year is taught over this weekend. Training will take place at the unit (16 South Front St.) and cadets will be given the option to stay overnight (cadets may go home Saturday evening and return Sunday morning if they prefer not to stay onboard overnight). All food will be provided for this weekend. Any cadets that have a food allergy or dietary restriction (medical or religious) need to talk with SLt Colwill ASAP (as soon as possible) so that we can make accommodations. Any cadets that will require medications during this event are asked to touch base with Lt(N) Wisniewski, who will be the medical officer for the activity, before the start of the weekend. Any other questions can be directed to SLt Taylor.

When: Cadets are to show up at the building for 0800 hrs (8am) on Saturday. Training will finish at 1700 hrs (5pm) on Sunday at which time cadets can be picked up from the building.

Where: The entire weekend will take place at our unit's building. (16 South Front St.)

Dress: Cadets are to wear their C5 (STU) uniform to the unit on Saturday. They must bring their Parka with them! Appropriate civilian clothes and sleepwear must be brought as they will change for different activities. (The STU uniform will be worn both days so bringing a second black t-shirt and pair of grey socks is recommended!)
